Consider the time the speaker spent preparing for your event.

Consider the time you spent browsing the catalog, contacting the speaker, planning the event, creating promotional materials, hosting the event, and filling out the evaluation and cost share at the end after the event. Take the time you spent on the program and multiple it by your hourly wage. Or, use our suggested hourly wage of $20.
4 hours x $20/hour = $80

Did you create one or multiple Facebook posts? Did you create a Facebook Event? Did you send our premade press release to your local paper? Did you advertise your event on your website or calendar of events? Even if you didn't pay for the article to run in the paper, consider what they would normally charge. Or, use our suggested prices.
2 Facebook Posts: 2 x $25/post = $50
1 Newspaper Article: 1 x $100 = $100

What does your meeting space typically rent for? Even if you didn't pay for the meeting space, there is a fair market value. Consider, what you would rent it for. Not sure? Use our suggested price of $100.

Did you buy refreshments or a Zoom license?

Did you print posters to hang in your establishment or around town?
